New-Type Rockets Fired at Germans

Use High-Velocity Missile Developed by Navy.

WITH UNITED STATES NINTH AIR FORCE, FRANCE — American fighter-bombers equipped with rockets that are in action in western Europe are using a new type of missile that offers the great advantage of a high ratio of fire control for the pilot.

Maj. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada, chief of the Ninth tactical air command, announcing the use of the high-velocity rocket by some Thunderbolt squadrons, said:

"It implements aircraft with a new weapon of tremendous possibilities. Further, it is very significant that the Thunderbolts are still able to bomb, machine-gun and fly as well with rockets as without.

"Rocket fire in France against enemy armor fully confirmed our high expectations and will undoubtedly lead to the increased use of this weapon."

General Quesada said that the new rocket had been developed by the United States navy, adding that "the navy did a better job on rockets than we."

The power for the rockets is difficult to manufacture," he said. "And they build up their speed in some weeks ago, when the first rocket-equipped planes were thrown in in close support of ground forces."

News of these rockets has been released now that several such planes have fallen into German hands.

Flying Auto Comes Next

Roscoe Turner Asserts

JEFFERSON CITY, MO.—Roscoe Turner, of Indianapolis, former speed flier, predicted "flying automobiles" in the postwar future.

When his prediction brought a laugh from the Missouri American Legionnaires he was addressing, Turner said:

"I'm not kidding. These things have already been flown.

"Some day when you go in to buy a car, the salesman will ask whether you want it with or without wings.

"You'll be able to drive to the airport, attach the wings and take off. When you come back, you'll check the wings at the airport and drive back to your garage."

Got a Franc, Yank?
French Kids Chant

WITH U. S. TROOPS IN FRANCE.—In England children cadging sweets from the troops had two chants: "Got any gum, chum?" "Got candy, handy?"

Sergt. Adolph Schott of Saginaw, Mich., says French kids have a new version.

"They are learning to yell, 'Got a franc, Yank?'" he said.

Captive Japanese Scoffs At American Fighters

KANSAS CITY.—The Australians are the best jungle fighters in the world, the Japanese are second and the Americans no good at all. That is the opinion of one Japanese taken prisoner by the Americans.

Capt. William J. Koenigsdorf wrote home from the South Pacific that the English-speaking prisoner didn't approve of the bombing and shelling that preceded American advances.

"First, the American cut down the jungle," he said. "Then he fight."

Bird Enables Soldiers To Practice First Aid

CAMP VAN DORN, MISS.—Six soldiers of the 255th infantry communications section here have living proof that they mastered their GI courses in first aid. While laying wire on a field problem, the group set the broken leg of a baby mocking bird. Later, back in the area, they found the bird hopping on his padded splints.

They removed the bandages and found the leg healed perfectly.

GI Art Professor Will Help Restore Cassino

ST. PAUL, MINN. — After the war, Pvt. Frank Kacmarcick, 25, of North St. Paul, hopes to take a hand toward restoration of masterpieces of Beuron liturgical art, destroyed in the bombing of Monte Cassino.

Private Kacmarcick is a graduate of Minneapolis school of art, and expects to return after the war to St John's university, Collegeville, Minn., where he taught art for five years. He has specialized in the study of Beuron art, so called because it originated in the Beuron Benedictine abbey in Germany.

Postal Money Order Is Not Legal Tender

NEW BEDFORD, MASS. — A postoffice money order is not legal tender in payment of debt, a district court special justice ruled recently.

Justice George H. Potter, of the third Bristol district court, made the ruling in granting an execution order for non-payment of a tenant's rent.

Machine Solves Many Problems

Calculator Will Be Used to Explore Vast Fields In Mathematics.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. — A machine that "thinks" and is possessed of an algebraic superbrain has been presented to Harvard university.

The machine, the theoretical basis for which was worked out by Comdr. Howard H. Aiken, U.S.N.R., associate professor of applied mathematics on leave from the Harvard graduate school of engineering, performs every mathematical operation called for in every known type of mathematical problem.

At the dictation of a mathematician, it will solve in a matter of hours equations never before solved because of their intricacy and the enormous time and personnel which would be required to work them out on ordinary office calculators.

For the present the calculator, which consists of an interlocking panel of small gears, counters, switches and control circuits only a few inches in depth, but 51 feet, three inches, from end to end, will be used by the navy in war service.

Use After War.

After the war it will be used to explore vast fields in pure mathematics previously barred from research by excessively intricate and time-consuming calculations and in the combinations of higher mathematics to all quantitative science. Completely new in principle, unlike any calculator previously built, the machine will solve virtually any known problem in applied mathematics, producing a result accurate to 23 significant figures.

Among many time - consuming problems the machine is especially designed to handle are the computation and tabulation of functions, evaluation of integrals, solution of ordinary differential equations, solution of simultaneous linear algebraic equation, computation of least squares and operations in harmonic and in statistical analysis.

In the completed machine are 500 miles of wire, 3,000,000 wire connections, 3,500 multiple relays with 35,000 contacts, 2,225 counters, 1,464 [illegible]

Take My Word For It!

By FRANK COLBY

HANDBOOK OF PRACTICAL ENGLISH

Q.—I seem to remember your saying that "taken prisoners" was incorrect, but for the life of me I cannot understand why. Will you please explain again?

A.—"300 Germans were taken prisoners" is as tenacious an error as is "All our planes returned safely."

"Taken" is used in the passive sense, as in the expression "taken by surprise." It doesn't mean that the Germans had taken (active) any prisoners, but that they had been captured, and "not (captives"), and were being held in bondage (not "bondages"), hence, they are deprived of liberty (not "liberties").

In the correct "300 Germans were taken (or made) prisoner," the noun "prisoner" has much of the quality of an adjective in that it describes (modifies) the condition of the Germans (noun), and does not refer to the action of the verb (taken).

This usage is quite common in English idiom. We find the same construction (singular nouns resembling adjectives) in such expressions as: They were caught napping; the ships weighed anchor; they were put to death; the people made way, etc.

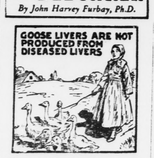
The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.



There is a very popular notion that the "pates de foi gras" made in Europe, especially Strasburg, was made from the livers of geese tortured before hot fires without water to drink until their livers became enlarged with disease. This is pure nonsense and geese whose livers are sold for the delicacy are fed in the open air till grown, then placed in coops and fattened with corn and wheat till ready to kill and market. They are given plenty of water at all times. The fattening increases the size of their livers. It was once believed that the waters of Strasburg contributed to the size of the liver.

Artificial Limbs Prepared for Vets

Legs Made of Half Plastic and Half Glass.

NEW YORK.—Artificial arms and legs, half fiber glass and half plastic, have been developed to replace the lost limbs of American soldiers.

These are literally glass limbs, since the fiber glass, with strands so fine they are nearly invisible, form part most of the unusual and desirable qualities.

They are made in the laboratories of the Paramount Rubber company, Detroit, an organization of synthetic rubber and plastics engineers, and have been offered to the military forces.

A fiber glass leg is strong, with a tensile strength of nearly 40,000 pounds a square inch. A glass leg is said never to squeak. It holds bolts and metal attachments firmly, and doesn't get out of line.

Having great resistance to termites and other insects, to water, body acids, surface wear and changes of heat and cold, they can be given plastic coatings to simulate the life and texture of flesh.

Manufacturers says the Paramount equipment is the speed of molding to shape and size. Compared with 12 hours required by an experienced craftsman to sculpture a seasoned English willow for a knee or ankle section, the glass-plastic can be molded in 15 minutes.

The machine plan to manufacture the limbs in 12 to 18 sizes, with plastic strips which can be laid on and sculptured by hand to match the contours of any patient.

The laboratory is experimenting with a casting resin to be placed in a leg or arm top, to take the impress of muscles which have to be positioned accurately in fitting artificial limbs.

Glass crash helmets, made of similar materials, also are being produced by the company.

1943 Corporate Profits Drop Below Prewar Level

WASHINGTON.—The National Association of Manufacturers issued a study showing corporate profits, in relation to volume of business, dropped from 3.1 per cent in 1939 to 2.8 per cent in 1943.

"In the light of these figures," it commented, "it seems ridiculous to say that the congress has failed to curb war profits. There are individual exceptions without a doubt and American business men dislike these exceptional cases just as earnestly as the government and the public. However, for nearly half a million active corporations most of the excess profits have been very effectively scooped by taxes and poured into the federal treasury."

The NAM study, which it said was based primarily on commerce department figures, gave corporation gross receipts in 1939 as $130,972,000,000 and net income after taxes as $4,082,000,000. The comparable figures for 1943 were $288,000,000,000 and $7,200,000,000.

Save 420,000 Man Hours By Ideas of Employees

NEW HAVEN, CONN. — A total of 420,000 man hours have been saved in the manufacture of guns and ammunition by ideas, suggestions and inventions of employees of Winchester Repeating Arms company, it was announced by the war production board.

Nineteen national awards made by the WPB in recognition of the ingenuity of Winchester employees, is the highest number ever accorded a single war plant at one time.

Although the saving in man hours was distributed throughout the plant, Thomas I. S. Boak, works manager, stated it was equal to the production of 30 million rounds of 30-caliber cartridges, or 24,000 Garand rifles or 27,000 Winchester carbines. Almost three-quarters of a million pounds of brass also was saved by employees' suggestions. This saving is the equivalent of more than 33 million cartridges for the new carbine, Mr. Boak said.

Soldiers Plant Gardens And Grow Aleutian Flora

AN ALEUTIAN ISLAND BASE — Arrival of orchid time in the Aleutians has converted hundreds of men, from GIs to generals, into ardent flower fanciers.

The orchids, miniature replicas of the lush, tropical flower, bloom profusely on protected hillsides, but are only one of a myriad of flowering plants which cover the grassy Aleutian slopes. Buttercups, wild iris, bluebells and lilies of the valley are among the more common blooms.

Many soldiers have well-kept flower gardens around the doors of their quonset huts, and flowers border the pathways. Vases with an assortment of blossoms brighten the corners of many huts, and it's not unusual to see officers of the post commander's staff returning from their weekly hike carrying flowers.

Amateur botanists found flowers on these islands markedly similar to species on the mainland. In general, the flowers are much smaller here—where growth is conditioned by the short summer season—and are more delicately scented or without any scent.

Thought Capsules' Are Now A ding Alcoholics

NEW YORK. — "Thought capsules" are contributing to the rehabilitation of alcoholics, says Edward Mordaunt, director of the bureau of alcoholic therapy.

The 17 "thought capsules" this is typical:

"I know I must abstain from alcohol, not merely for the sake of others, but first and foremost for my own self-esteem. . . . An alcoholic is made, not born. . . . I do not like alcohol. . . . I like myself. My personal experience that drinking never solved a problem for me."

Find Drug To Aid Fight on Leprosy

New Weapon in Long War Is One of Sulfones.

CARVILLE, LA. — The medical world may have a new weapon in its fight against leprosy in promin, a new sulfonamide derivative and a relative of the now famous sulfa drugs, or some promin successor.

Promin resulted from weary months of research by Dr. Louis Brambisa, chemical engineer, bacteriologist and chemist. He put together atoms of nitrogen, carbon, oxygen, sulphur and sodium—and the resulting yellow powder was given the name promin.

The new drug is one of the sulfonic acid compounds of the sulfonamides and a family long overshadowed by the sulfas' spectacular rise to medical prominence.

In a group of 22 patients, each was given promin intravenously, except Sundays, for a year. Two-week rest periods, during which they got no promin, were observed on three times. They were piled with liver and iron to ward off anemia, the most troublesome manifestation resulting from promin injections.

Results showed that 15 cases definitely improved; the condition of six remained stationary, and only one showed any signs of growing worse.

In another experiment, 48 sufferers took a course of promin for 18 months. Twenty-six showed objective improvement. In 17 the condition remained stationary, only three patients grew worse.

Promin appears to replace copper, leprous patches. Open sores healed. Throat and nasal lesions, which clog their victims' nose and suffocation, began to subside, and corneal lesions of the eye, threatening blindness, cleared up.

Flier Who Twice 'Missed Boat,' Has No Regrets Now

CLEVELAND, OHIO. — Veteran of 31 missions over Germany, Sgt. Ronald Tevault doesn't regret the two times he "missed the boat."

Tevault, 22 home on furlough after two years overseas, showed up one day for a flight with a bad cold and was grounded. The plane never came back. The crew bailed out over Germany and became prisoners.

Later, Sergeant Tevault was assigned to fill out a crew of green fliers. He said the pilot never kept close formation, so he asked for a transfer.

He got it, and on the next flight the plane disappeared. Nothing has been heard since from the crew, he said.

Bowl Game Feature of New Year's Since 1916

Since 1916 the Rose Bowl football game has been played annually on New Year's day as a cofeature of Pasadena's Tournament of Roses.

The championship team of the Pacific Coast conference invites an Eastern contender selected from among the teams which have made the best records during the autumn playing, thus making the game one of America's outstanding intercollegiate sporting events.

A Good Resolution

One of the New Year resolutions that would mean increase of happiness in many a family is this: Not to speak of mistakes which make no difference. How arguing over nothings mars the home harmony. An erroneous opinion may need correction, but what possible difference does it make whether Aunt Jane came to dinner Tuesday or Wednesday, or whether it rained Friday or Saturday.

If you have not met its requirements, we urge you to see, telephone or write us at once.
The Easiest, Safest, and most Economical way to fulfill the requirements of the law is to take out an Automobile Liability Policy in a strong and experienced Casualty Company.
We represent THE TRAVELERS INSURANCE COMPANY of Hartford, Connecticut. This Company wrote the first Automobile Liability Policy that was ever issued and today writes more of this type of automobile insurance than any other Company in existence. Our claim service is nationwide.
We invite you to join the ranks of The Travelers and enjoy peace of mind.
